

Lubna Hussain Compares CNN to Hitler's Propaganda Machine

Hussain: When you're reporting a story, it should not have a slant. I think that the Western media, as I said, go in with an angle, and they corroborate that angle through stories that actually match that angle. That, therefore, is not impartial reporting, that is not a reporting job, in my estimation. I don't see any difference now between what was going on in World War II, in terms of Hitler's propaganda machine, and what is going on in, for example, a network like CNN, which 24/7 bombards you with, as I said, massaged stories and massaged facts and figures that correspond to the very thing they're trying to prove in the first place. So it's a question again of deduction and induction. It's no longer this sort of impartial, wanting to bring the truth to the World. It's wanting to bring your truth, and making everyone else believe it.
